

Cataract excision

About The Procedure

As the lens in the eye ages, is traumatized, or suffers the effects of certain medications, it forms a cataract, which causes cloudy vision. The remedy for cataracts is surgical excision, which is managed by an eye surgeon, an ophthalmologist.

It's important for your ophthalmologist to be experienced with cataract surgery. The surgeon should explain the procedure and answer all of your questions. A thorough eye exam should be performed prior to scheduling cataract surgery.

When considering cataract surgery, it is important to choose the right surgeon. Will your care be managed by an ophthalmologist? Will your surgeon take the time to understand your visual goals?

Our surgeons are eye surgery artists. Each has years of experience, does his own pre-operative assessments, and has an absolute commitment to service. They will discuss the different lens options available. Restoring your vision is our surgeons' goal.
