Laser-assisted in situ keratomileusis (LASIK) or photorefractive keratectomy (PRK)

About The Procedure

Many people have short sightedness, far sightedness, and other forms of imperfect vision, for which solutions include glasses, contact lenses, and laser surgery. When considering vision correction surgery, also known as refractive eye surgery, it is important to choose the right surgeon.

Will your care be managed by an ophthalmologist? Does your surgeon take care of glaucoma and cataracts ... or vision correction? Will your surgeon take the time to understand your visual goals?

Our surgeons are vision correction artists who own their own laser centers and are absolutely focused on vision correction. Each has more than 15 years' experience, does his own pre-operative assessments, and has an absolute commitment to service. Many have been deeply involved in developing the technology and techniques that are today industry standards. They are some of the best vision correction surgeons in the world. If you are looking for quality, then our surgeons are your solution.
