

Laparoscopic Hysterectomy

An outpatient surgery package for women suffering from painful periods, fibroid tumors, or uterine prolapse.

About The Procedure

Laparoscopic hysterectomy is a procedure performed to remove a woman's uterus.

Indications for such an operation include heavy or painful periods, fibroid tumors, cervical disorders, and pelvic organ prolapse. These conditions can be corrected and symptoms relieved with minimally invasive laparoscopic hysterectomy, which is done through small incisions in the abdomen.

When considering laparoscopic uterine surgery, it is important to know that the surgeon who will carry out your surgery has the experience and focus to deliver the quality you want, will see you before and after surgery, and will use the most efficient, least risky, and least painful approach.

Our gynecological surgeons are absolutely focused on laparoscopic uterine surgery. Each has years of experience, does his own pre-operative evaluations, carries out your surgery, and has an absolute commitment to service. Many have been involved in developing the techniques and technology that are today industry standard. If you are looking for quality, then our surgeons are your solution.
